More possibilities for searching effectively:

Truncation using the asterisk (*) is helpful if too few or no results at all are found:

e.g. “chem*“ will show results for “chemistry“, “chemical reaction“, “chemist“

→ There’s many possibilities for how the word you’re looking for might end — therefore you’ll get a wide range of results by using this method!

→ Tip: Start by truncating, then limit the number of results using filters (that way you’ll simultaneously get wide coverage while maintaining a manageable amount of results).

Good luck with your research! ☺
